LETTER OF RECOMMENDATION

I have known Mrs Terry Modica and I have been associated with her through the internet for the last 4 years.

She has a very beautiful catholic teaching on her website on Evangelization, Biblical teaching and moral teachings. Her weekly catechesis and also daily reflection on the liturgical readings of the day are very practical and suitable to people's need. She is very much pro-Church in all her teaching and she has good theological background. She is well verse with the CCC, Papal Encyclicals, Vatican II's documents, Church Social Doctrine and biblical theology.

In today's world when people are dissatisfied with many things in the Church especially from the moral and dogmatic point of view, it is admirable to find a woman with such caliber to defend the Catholic teaching and to propagate it though the expensive modern electronic media Internet Website. I also appreciate her for being available to conduct conferences and to take classes in the Seminary wherever she is invited. She is also interested in evangelization through her writings and through contacts with people from internet. She created also a Website, called "The Emmaus Journey e-Group", where people of interest share their faith with others. This website has evangelized so many people. By listening to others who have similar problem and by hearing how they found solution to it because of faith, people got courage and changed their life.

In spite of her busy schedule, still Mrs Terry Modica is able to respond to people's queries and find benefactors to sponsor diocesan needs like constructing houses for the poor, constructing village chapels, Hostels and so on. Her interest is very much pro Church and pro-Mission. Because of her involvement in the life and mission of the Church her classes and writings become more practical and Church teaching becomes relevant.

I, therefore, recommend her and her charism to teach Catholic teachings to whoever needs her service. There will be no regrets.

Yours,

+ Vincent Kympat,
Bishop of Jowai, INDIA
